Street Artist Le Diamantaire Exhibits at Wide Painting Gallery in Paris

15 October 2015

Ever noticed this when looking up in the street? We followed the diamonds and it led us to the Wide Painting Gallery.

Street-artist, Le Diamantaire scatters diamonds across the walls of the big cities of the World. These diamonds are produced from glass fragments recovered from the street and reworked by the hand of the artist. Returned to the streets, they are reborn in the form of diamonds. These creations, which sparkle, catch our eye. They also instigate envy, as each diamond placed in the street is a signed and numbered work by the artist.

Catch the exhibition until december 19th and follow him on Facebook and Instagram for more hints on where he left his latest street art diamonds!

Diamonds Are Forever @ Wide Painting, 17 Rue du Cardinal Lemoine, Paris V – until December 19th, 2015
